

I am appalled to hear that the NAB wants to stop satellite radio from providing local content to listeners. I support satellite radio wholeheartedly, and am grateful for the local weather and traffic that they provide, commercial free. I PAY XM for this service, and as a consumer, I should be allowed to dictate what services I pay for, not have it dictated to me by another group. If XM or Sirius can provide me with locally oriented content and I am willing to pay for it, too bad for the NAB. I would support MORE local content on the satellite channels if it were technologically feasible, as it's flat-out a better delivery mechanism, and they simply put out a better product. Perhaps the NAB should start looking into providing better services as opposed to trying to bully a better competitor out of the way. Please say NO to the NAB.
